

Rabbis for Women of the Wall

רבנים למען נשות הכותל

January 20, 2011

Dear Justice Jubran,

We write you as a shofet of the State of Israel which we so dearly love and support. We represent over 600 rabbis, 85 cantors, 57 Jewish organizations, and 1000 individuals whose names are on the attached letters.

We are deeply saddened by the shrinking size of the women's section at the Kotel, one of the holiest sites of our people, and we are gravely concerned that the plans for refurbishing the Kotel do not yet provide properly for Jewish women. There should be a section where haredi and orthodox and non-orthodox women may pray in silence. There should be a section for men where haredi and orthodox and non-orthodox men may pray in accordance with their custom and out of earshot of kol isha. And there should be a section where women may raise their voices in prayer, wear a tallit and tefillin, read from the Sefer Torah, and be safe and within the law.

Clearly, our request is beyond architecture. In the stories about Rabbi Eliezer, the Talmud tells us that we are to adhere to the view of the majority. We request that you and your colleagues on the Supreme Court reverse the Court's previous decision concerning Women of the Wall and provide for the religious rights of all Jews at the Kotel, including the orthodox, and including the majority of our people throughout the world whose custom allows, and, in fact insists, on a woman's right to lead worship and participate in it fully. We, and our constituents and those whom we represent all over the world, turn in prayer to Jerusalem, and more specifically to the Kotel and Har HaBayit. The Kotel has become a place of holiness, holding the prayers of over two thousand years. Please do not ignore us. For the sake of your children and ours, please hear our call.

Thank you for your consideration.

B'chavod rav,
